When it comes to supply chain, Western Australia finds itself in a difficult position in its history. After a long period of companies driving a revenue focused business model, thanks to the recent boom times, we have now made a sharp turn to focus directly on cost reduction through strong efficiency gains. As a result of this turn, we'd like to discuss the increasing adoption of international supply chain practices in Western Australian organisations and introduce some of the disrupters we see making an impact now, and in the near future.

Presenters

Simon Coates

Simon has 25 years of Supply Chain industry experience in the UK, Asia and Australia. With experience across a broad range of industries and geographies. Simon can talk to what is driving supply chains worldwide and the international trends we are currently observing being adopted.

James Brown

James has over 15 years consulting experience in a range of industry sectors such as rail, mining, logistics, oil & gas, manufacturing, retail, and education. He has been working in the WA supply chain space for the last 2 ½ years, assisting organisations making the turn to cost efficiency.
