

SCLAA WA

Supply Chain Psychology for Success - Developing Effective Leadership Qualities

Monday, 12 March 2018

The SCLAA WA is proud to support the launch of the Graduate Certificate of Supply Chain and Logistics Management at Edith Cowan University with an event that will be of value to both students and industry professionals.

Illuminate Group will present the case and an argument that the supply chain industry need to strengthen their collective leadership traits like self-awareness, self-regulation, social awareness, relationship management and align their systems maturity to that of cognitive one. These otherwise known as soft skills can have hard consequences for the supply chain process maturity.

- When: Monday, 12 March 2018
- Where: Room 10.131, Edith Cowan University, Mount Lawley Campus
- Cost:

SCLAA Members:	$No charge
ECU Students	$No charge
Affiliates (APICS / CILTA):	$10.00
Non-Members:	$25.00
- Time: 17:30 - 19:00
- Parking: Free parking available on campus.

Kindly sponsored by:

Refreshments will be provided and sponsored by the School of Business and Law, ECU

A 2016 study of corporate professionals working in supply chain management conducted by Queensland forensic psychologist Nathan Brookes found that 21 per cent of those individuals had clinically significant levels of psychopathic traits such as insincerity, lack of empathy or remorse, egocentric behaviour and the ability to be both charming and superficial.

The study compared the supply chain management professionals with psychopathic traits with those of the broad prison population. About one in five people in prison and one in 100 people in the general community are psychopathic, according to emerging studies. The volatility, uncertainty, ambiguity, and complexity within which supply chain industry operates requires supply chain cultures that can constantly learn, unlearn and relearn. Illuminate Group will present the case and an argument that the supply chain industry need to strengthen their collective leadership traits like self-awareness, self-regulation, social awareness, relationship management and align their systems maturity to that of cognitive one. These otherwise known as soft skills can have hard consequences for the supply chain process maturity.

Associate Professor Ferry Jie, PhD, Discipline of Commerce

Ferry will briefly introduce the new Graduate Certificate of Supply Chain and Logistics Management, MMIS and Master of Project Management.

Presenter: Kanwar Trevisan-Singh

Kanwar is a qualified, experienced and passionate Leadership and Organisational Development professional with Illuminate Group with over 15 years of experience across a broad range of sectors, including heavy resources industry, professional services and public enterprises within Europe and Australia.

Illuminate Group are leadership and management consultants in Perth that provide game changing leadership and management consulting solutions.

REGISTER ONLINE NOW

Registrations close
7 March 2018