

SCLAA NSW

Supply Chain Skills Shortage – A National Crisis

Wednesday, 19 June 2019

Come along and be part of this interactive workshop, showcasing the current challenges and potential solutions to this National crisis.

Date: Wednesday, 19 June 2019

Cost: SCLAA Members - No charge
Non Members - $40.00

Venue: Kelly Services Centre of Excellence, Building D,
22 Powers Rd, Seven Hills

Time: 5.30pm for 6pm start to 8.30pm

REGISTER NOW

Priority given to attendees with DC, Warehouse, 3PL and Transport operations. Kelly has the right of approval for all attendees.

This event will focus on the intricacies of the supply chain industry, the challenges faced by all, with real solutions on what you as a business leader can do in the face of rising wages, increased legislation, speed to market and customer demand.

Be part of this evenings workshop with all in attendance to utilise what they have learnt to create solutions to the problems faced by all.

James Christopherson – (Facilitator)

A practice expert with over 15 years' experience helping Fortune 500 companies drive effective Strategy Execution, James will workshop ideas on how attendees can create solutions to the common problems faced in supply chain today.

Philip Haddad – Ex COO – Booktopia

Having played a pivotal role in the development of one of the fastest growing Australian E-commerce businesses, Phil will share his experience staffing and managing an on demand workforce in a talent short market.

Kurt Gillam - Deputy Country General Manager at Kelly Services Australia

With the Australian employment landscape changing faster today than ever before, Kurt will examine the Supply Chain and Logistic Industry and look at what Kelly Services is doing to assist employers combat the current skill shortages.

Richard Savoie – Director - Staybil Workforce

As the director of a multi award winning business, Richard will showcase some of the rapid developments in Artificial Intelligence creating efficiencies and cost effective solutions to meet customer demands.

Registrations close: Friday, 14 June 2019