A MORNING WITH MARTIN CHRISTOPHER

The Key Challengers and Opportunities for Supply Chain Management
over the Next Decade

Tuesday, 18 October 2016

Martin Christopher

Professor Martin Christopher has been at the forefront of the development of new thinking in Supply Chain & Logistics Management for over thirty years, and his expertise is reflected in the many international academic and industry awards that he has received from organisations across the world. Martin was one of the first to recognise that the real competition is between supply chains not companies, and he has sought to identify ways in which supply chain excellence can be achieved and sustained especially in light of increasing in global business volatility.

Recently retired as the head of the world renowned Centre for Logistics and Supply Chain Management at Cranfield University in the UK, Griffith University, together with the Supply Chain and Logistics Association of Australia, are delighted to be able to present 'A Morning with Martin Christopher' in which he will offer his personal perspective on the future developments and demands of efficient, effective and sustainable Supply Chain Management over the next decade.
